

Simple Object Storage - Weekly Report

Nijad Huseynov

June 2023

During the last week, I have investigated existing open source object storages and review their source codes in order to form a picture how they are implemented. Secondly, I have reviewed raft consensus algorithm in distributed systems and erasure codes to make the system durable.

Lastly, I have investigated facebook's haystack object storage architecture and main implementation ideas from the corresponding paper.